Hey Carey,

How has your summer been going? Well, I hope. Mine has been going along great except for a record-breaking this last week. I've been spending a lot of time down at the studio as it is cooler their then in my downtown apartment.

My big question to you is whether you could tell the difference between Detroit and Venice… you know, just by looking. I would like to hear about your visit to Detroit if you found a chance to write.

I haven't written to you or a number of other close friends in awhile. I just seem to write less in the summer. It is more of a winter thing.

Hope you find time to both rest up before school starts and work on art projects. There is a summer festival going on in Seattle this weekend and very, very noisy jet planes are flying low over the city. I can't help but think of other people on the planet hearing the same sound but it isn't a festival.
