PS,

I remember reading of this 2006 Seattle Khat bust at the time. And I remember writing you about it, which means you might have been out of the country or at least Seattle. As I remember the Khat seized was aboard a commercial airliner sent completely undisguised, wrapped in banana leaves and in open, wooden fruit crates. My take on it was the Somalis didn't know it was illegal in the States.