Dear Nicola,

I arrived home late Monday night a week ago and only just got back on Seattle time. I enjoyed my trip to London immensely and thank you for that. I had a great brunch with Carey after I broke up with Ben Dickey and got to see her exhibit. I swear Carey is the most cerebral artist I know. I am privileged to have her as a friend.

All my sculpture projects were reacting as before, as my cat hadn't knocked anything over. As I have gotten older it is good to get home. Seattle seems three-fifths scale after London but I am comfortable here and getting some art done.

Thanks for all you did to make my visit a pleasant one.

Jim
